Since merit, in and of itself, is only possible with grace, then it becomes important to make another key distinction from what Aquinas calls gratia operans—operating grace, and gratia cooperans—cooperating grace. I think that this distinction further clarifies the way in which we merit as human persons, and while also showing that grace is ...

On the Relationship Between Merit and Grace - Homiletic ...

If I am what I am by the grace of God, then my works of any type of merit can never precede any grace. If i have done anything "good" or made any progress in "God's will for my life" i would attribute it all to grace, and not 1/2 a percent to myself. By God's grace i breathe each breath, much less live a Christian life day by day. Luke 17:10.

A number of decades ago at the Ligonier Valley Study Center, we sent out a Thanksgiving card with this simple statement: "The essence of theology is grace; the essence of Christian ethics is gratitude." In all the debates about our role versus God's role in sanctification—our growth in holiness—we'd stay on the right track if we'd remember this grace-gratitude dynamic.
