Samsung is a brand that has always worked very well for me. Especially with computer monitors. I bought this to upgrade the monitor on my wife's PC. And, it looks beautiful and does the job very well. The built-in speakers work pretty well, and for her purposes that is all she needs. (Less clutter on the desk without needing extra speakers is ...

Fortunately Samsung's SyncMaster TA350 comes with a remote controller that is much easier to use. When you first set up the monitor, use the Tools button to set the Edit Name. If you switch back and forth between components--I switch between my PC and my Blu-ray player--the Source button makes the switch easy. Or you can use the HDMI button.

Samsung have a deserved reputation for high clarity screens, and for good reason. They own their own glass company from which their LED panels are made. This screen is excellent, but, if the initial image disappoints, check the 'Magic Angle' settings on the screen and in the documentation. Samsung alters the profile of the monitor depending on ...
